

The Pursuit of Flourishing Family

1. Do we honor our parents with the way we talk about them, both in private and in front of our children?
2. What is our long term vision for our family's relationship with grandparents? How can we intentionally work towards that?
3. You will very likely be an in-law one day! Pray with your spouse for your children's future families and allow the heart you have for them influence the way you treat your in-laws now.

Take time this next week to discuss one or more of the above questions with your husband about how you can pursue family this season!
